Saint Stephen's School
315 Forty-first Street West
Bradenton, Florida 33529

Kris Klabik, Editor-in-Chief

With the graduation of their daughter Mindy, Richard and Nona Turner end sixteen sweet years as Saint Stephen's parents.

David Mathus kneels before Bishop E. Paul Haynes and Father Barnes at his ordination into the priesthood.

The Reverend Bennett H. Barnes completes his tenth year as Headmaster of Saint Stephen's School.

It's a Landmark Year!

It was a year full of landmarks. While many did not directly involve us here at Saint Stephen's, we were all connected to the notable events of the year.

The Statue of Liberty turned 100. As renovation of the landmark continued, we all wondered what we could do to help preserve it. Also 100 was the hamburger, certainly American's favorite sandwich. The year also marked the appearance of Halley's Comet, a light in the sky that appears only once every 75 years.

Inside our world at Saint Stephen's, we marked many important landmark anniversaries, too. Father Barnes, Mrs. Valerie Hunter, and the Community Thrift Shop all marked a decade of service to the school. Other families, like that of David and Nona Turner, would end years of involvement with the graduation of their children.

Late in October, faculty member David Mathus was ordained a priest in the Episcopal Church. The entire school helped to mark the landmark in Father Mathus's life.

The most visible landmark was the addition of a new administration building at the northwest section of the campus. Teachers and staff members had more space and privacy.

Spirit '86 takes a look at the milestones in our lives this school year.

Mrs. Edna Alexander, Mrs. Ann Gould, chairman of the board, and Mrs. Georgette Orander help the Community Thrift Shop celebrate its tenth anniversary.

Milestone

Day by day, we passed many landmarks, both routine and remarkable. We beat Bradenton Christian for the first time in three years. The parking lot filled up with new cars belonging to newly-turned-sixteen-year-olds. The Class of 1986 began to fill out college applications. The list of everyday and important milestones goes on and on, but as the saying goes, "one picture is worth a thousand words."

Student Life

A Living Landmark

Not only does she have a toy to play with, but Mrs. Hunter also has a machine that helps her to tackle her day-to-day duties.

Celebrating her tenth year of service to the school, Mrs. Valerie Hunter, assistant to the headmaster, has become a living landmark at Saint Stephen's.

Mrs. Hunter came to our school in 1976 and took over the duties in the main office, which included assisting Father Barnes.

Originally from Ashtabula, Ohio, Mrs. Hunter moved to Florida with her family in 1964. While the family has grown and gone its separate ways, she still remains close to her brothers, as well as to her mother and sister, both of whom also live in Florida.

Outside of her busy schedule on the job, Mrs. Hunter has many interests. She is an accomplished seamstress, needlecrafter, photographer, and chef. She enjoys sailing and has already made several trips to the Florida Keys with friends. She hopes one day to sail to the Bahamas.

She particularly enjoys spending time with her son Gabe, a sophomore at Saint Stephen's. She is often seen in the stands at athletic events, watching her son play.

Mrs. Hunter came to Saint Stephen's when it was a small, young school. In the ten years she has been with us, she has watched it grow, too.

Spirit '86, It's A Landmark Year, is dedicated to Mrs. Valerie Hunter for her invaluable service to the school.

Headmaster Bennett Barnes and his assistant, Mrs. Valerie Hunter, both celebrate tenth anniversaries at Saint Stephen's this year.

A smile and an organized mind help Mrs. Hunter to keep her many jobs under control.

Always an ardent sports fan, Mrs. Hunter enjoys watching her son Gabe, a sophomore, play soccer.

Mrs. Hunter and son Gabe pose several years ago at the South Seas Plantation on Captiva Island, a favorite family gathering spot for vacations.

Kindergarteners and Seniors: Hello and Good-bye

Hidden within painting, clay modeling, and pouring water are the skills used daily by Saint Stephen's seniors. Who would think that both kindergarten and senior teachers would teach the same skills? "Pre-writing" taught by kindergarten teacher Mrs. Lucy Kozak is used to strengthen hand muscles for more rigorous tasks. Mrs. Pat Miller uses "pre-writing" to generate ideas for papers. Although "pre-writing" can take on different meanings, the end result benefit the student.

Repeating these skills must have been valuable for Wilma Mallari and Mindy Turner, both at Saint Stephen's for thirteen years. Both were commended by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation for their outstanding performance on the PSAT.

Senior Jenna Gillis takes a break from homework to read a story to the kindergarteners during seventh period library hour.

Longtime students Mindy Turner, Betty Rice, Kris Klabik, Allison Nestor, and Wilma Mallari look ahead to graduation. The group has been together since lower school.

Kindergarteners Kevin Starrak and Anna Gillett point to their pictures on the birthday line that celebrates each student's life from birth to the present.

Painting is a favorite pastime of kindergartener Molly Fogarty.

Wilma Mallari, a student at Saint Stephen's for thirteen years, examines college material.

Saint Stephen's was "Sweet Sixteen" this year and so were many of the upper school students. Many commemorated their sixteenth birthday by receiving the keys to the car.

The year was exciting for those who took their driving test for the first time. Emily Surfus thought it was fun, although she had to take it twice!

This was the Year of the Safe Driver as seat belt wearers increased in number.

Jim Spencer agrees to give all his friends a ride home.

Chip Peabody cruises into the parking lot at 8:26 a.m.

Chris Pierce stands with a stony friend.

Among the many not so ho-hum days students looked forward to were the landmark days reserved for field trips.

Coach Stoll led the Boys' North Carolina Wilderness Trip for the eleventh year.

The marine biology class counted many landmarks along the way to Key West. However, "Are we having fun yet?" was the question that became more important than sightseeing on that exceptionally rainy journey.

The advanced Spanish classes celebrated improving skills at Casa Lupita in Bradenton and at the Columbia Restaurant on Saint Armand's Circle.

While French and Spanish classes were intrigued with paintings at the Dali Museum in St. Petersburg, fourth graders were fascinated with the history they discovered at the Fogartyville Cemetery, just walking distance from the school.

Coach Stoll is the leader down the Appalachian Trail.

It's not the Creature from the Black Lagoon, just marine biology instructor Mr. Scott MacGregor.

Prom Court, 1985: Allison Nestor, Kris Klabik, King Marshall Davidson, and Queen Susan Miller.

It's not only a landmark year for Saint Stephen's School, but also one for its students. All students agreed that the exciting landmarks of the years are parties. This year all classes joined in the fun.

Lower school students had their usual Halloween party and also celebrated birthdays. Middle schoolers had two dances.

High school classes celebrated at end-of-the-year parties at one of their class member's homes.

Prom, the biggest event of the year, was the most planned for party of all. "Caribbean Cruise," the fifth annual prom, featured reggae music by the Instigators. Joining the King and Queen Marshall Davidson and Susan Miller on the Prom Court were Kris Klabik, Allison Nestor, Emily Surfus, Jim Spencer, Chris Pierce, and Lisa Smith.

Kim Dockery and Aimee Theroux enjoy their class party at the end of the school year.

Cornerstone of the Week: Weekends!

Even though injured, Eric Massey is still surrounded by girls.

Beach activities are on the roll as students play touch football.

DJ's David Barnes and Matt Moran man the records at the junior high Halloween dance.

Middle schoolers and freshmen mingle at a weekend's dance in the gym.

Supervising the refreshment table at a middle school dance are John Stark, Wendy Mallari, and Tom Stull.

Members of the freshman class wash cars in the November sun and earn big dollars for their class treasury.

The weekend was definitely the cornerstone of the week. Just ask anyone. From kindergarteners to seniors, everyone agreed those two days were the best!

Some watched cartoons; others visited friends, played soccer, went to the beach, or found the next party.

Not all weekend activities were that much fun. Many students spent weekends sitting for SAT's, ACT's and writing college applications.

Fun or work, weekends provided a welcomed break from the daily classroom routine.

Jobs and Volunteerism Mark Extra Hours

Reading to lower school students is what Jenna Gillis does with her spare time on campus. Here she reads to students from the ever popular Dr. Seuss.

John Vinton prepares to help with clean up after a busy lunch hour shift.

He's all dressed up and definitely has a place to go. Senior Kris Klabik and friend, Louis Brown take a break from the busy crowd at the Sara Bay Country Club, where Kris worked as the assistant maitre d'.

Junior Mara Flournoy conducted an art therapy program at the Carol Lou Mora Center. For her efforts she was recognized as CLM's Teen Volunteer of the Year.

Many students found the spirit for jobs and volunteer activity. A survey showed that over half of the upper school students had part-time jobs. Occupations varied from restaurant work and candy store clerk to domestic helper and tennis club attendant.

In addition to holding a job, students like Gene LaForest found time for volunteer work. Gene spent every Sunday afternoon as a "go-fer" at Blake Hospital.

Many Bollettieri students would have worked if they had the time. Tom Nielsen looked ahead to summer when he hoped to get a job stringing racquets.

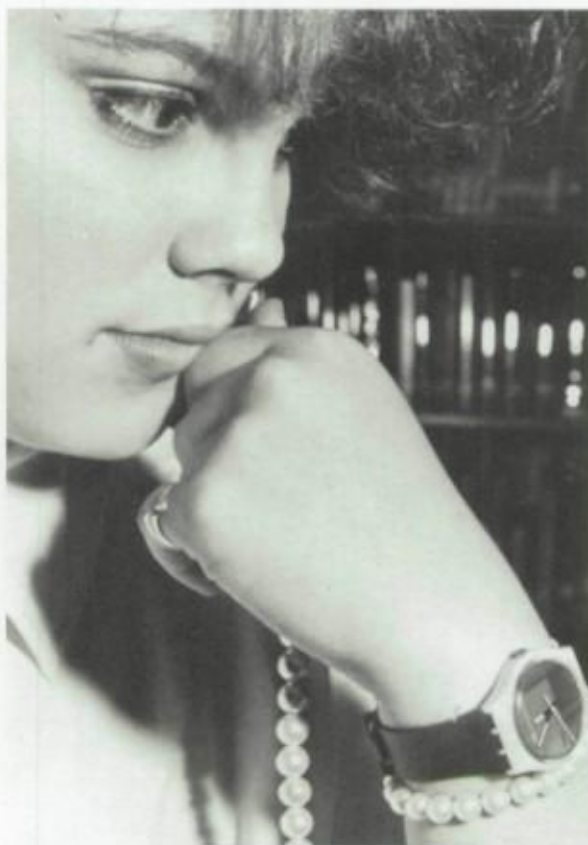

Getting lunch out to students on a thirty-minute break requires organization and concentration. John Vinton hands a lunch to Susan Harmon. He and Gene LaForest, employees of the Parents' Club, helped speed the delivery.

So Long to the Preppy Look

It was definitely the year of the individual. Clothes no longer matched and the Preppy Look had all but vanished from the Saint Stephen's campus.

Fads and fashions '86 showed a combination of classic style and New Wave. We saw the return of old antique jewelry and bright, floral prints. Accessories were in style. Swiss Swatches became an instant success; however, Gucci purses remained popular, despite their preppie connection.

Kellie McLaughlin sports a Swatch, the Swiss sensation that appeared on wrists about campus.

Rhinestones became quite popular again. Carrie Jones' earrings were only part of the sparkle being worn.

Anklets reappeared on the fashion scene, as did lower hemlines.

Sporting the "look" around campus, for this season, at least, are Todd Menke, Susan Cona, Allison Menke, Jenna Gillis, and Sherri Haymon.

Lower hemlines, florals, twisted clothes, and heavy rhinestone jewelry marked the fashion scene for Kellie McLaughlin, Carrie Jones, Sarah Schatz, and Marion Leech.

Talent Abounds in This Landmark Year

Squeezing in an hour for the guitar is about all the time David Barnes has during the regular school year; however, he did find time to play at several school events.

Andrew Lyon and Jamie Moseley spend many hours kicking the ball around seriously. Both participated in the Sarasota Junior Soccer League.

Saint Stephen's is very challenging academically, but students do find time for leisure interests. Soccer, dancing, karate, windsurfing, boating, drama, and music are just a few of the activities that occupied students during spare, study-free hours.

Jason Netter, tennis student at NBTA, said that he is very busy. He makes time for his interesting hobbies. "I windsurf, and cook Italian food in my spare time."

Senior Nicole Hammons enjoys many sports. "I am very active. I work out daily and do aerobics. I play tennis, ride my bike, swim, and collect shoes in my spare time."

In the Florida climate, it is obvious that most people enjoy outdoor sports. Allison Menke enjoys canoeing in the bay or near her house.

Jenna Gillis has an interesting "indoor hobby." She has been collecting coins since she was ten years old. "I started collecting them when I was given a set of foreign currency from the Franklin Mint."

Sports and hobbies of the students reflected the diversity of the student body.

Dance helps to develop poise and confidence. Sarah Bettie warms up for exercises which precede her daily work in the dance studio.

Taking up karate for self-defense and self-confidence seemed wise to Kristen Grindal. In a meditative mood, she poses in her karate Gi.

Many students spent time developing dramatic skills. Laurent De Winter and Betty Rice practice a scene from "Lovers in the Metro" for French Congress. Bart Vereb is the passive passenger.

Competing with the elements is what Chris Pierce likes most about windsurfing. Chris maintains a delicate balance in Palma Sola Bay as he vies with the wind.

Saint Stephen's Students at Home, Passing the Time

St. Stephen's is a big part of all of our lives. Most of us spend 35-45 hours a week at school or with some school-related activity. But when the bell rings at 2:30, everyone knows it is time to go home; and St. Stephen's students do many different things when they get home.

"When I get home, I give my mom a kiss and tell her I have to go to work," said senior Todd Menke.

"I like to lie on the couch for an hour or so," added eighth grader Billy North.

Whether it is kissing Mom or taking a nap, we all love to go home, the place where we begin and end our days.

Having built his own ramp in his backyard, Chris Pierce passes his time skateboarding.

With the face to show it, Jarett Honahan likes cupcakes when he gets home.

When he isn't doing homework, Jonathan Hamlin spends his day with the Manatee Area Youth Soccer Organization. (MAYSO)

Following in her sisters' footsteps, violinist Kristine Whitson plans to attend Indiana University.

Highlight

Milestone

It was a landmark year for longtime All-Conference performers Kris Klabik, Matt Moran, Chip Peabody, Jennifer Jones, Mindy Turner, and Allison Nestor. This was their final year to lead Green and Gold to victory.

Highlighting this milestone year was the addition of two new varsity coaches. Marnie Wheaton brought the girls together for strong volleyball and basketball teams. Martin Gilbert brought discipline and strength to the boys varsity basketball team.

As Matt Moran slides into action, others stand by to watch. Saint Stephen's eventually lost the match to Keswick, 4-2.

Falcon Spirit!!

What Is a Cheerleader?

Is it someone who wears a white, green, and gold skirt to school to show off her legs? Is it someone who sells carnations on Valentine's Day? Is it someone who wants to get out of P.E.? Is it someone who wants an excuse to see the guys play basketball? Is it some mindless beauty with rubber bands for muscles? Is it someone who yells chants about stomping Panthers and walking over Blazers? Or is it someone who has nothing better to do than cheer and collect snails?

No.

Then, what is a cheerleader?

Well, a cheerleader is a person who has true school spirit and dedicates her time and effort to promoting spirit. A cheerleader is someone that cheers her team to victory. She is willing to give up a Saturday to help throw a party for a lower schooler's birthday. She donates her own money to buy a uniform. She travels many miles to cheer her team on. She paints huge posters for the gym. She is a role model for all young girls but not a "goodie two-shoes." She is an overall excellent individual who has true school spirit.

And what is a Falcon cheerleader?

That's easy. A Falcon cheerleader is the best kind there is.

It was a season of beginnings and endings for the varsity volleyball team. It was a beginning for first year coach Marnie Wheaton. She said, "I didn't know what to expect. This is the first time I coached volleyball. I have coached tennis before, but that is more of an individual sport."

It was an ending for seniors Jennifer Jones, Mindy Turner, Allison Nestor, Betty Rice, and Jenna Gillis, who led the team to an 8-10 season.

Bright spots in the season were All-Conference recognition for Jennifer Jones and Mindy Turner, the team's leading servers, and improvement of novice varsity members Christie Clark and Carrie Jones.

Soccer Team Breaks Losing Streak

After a two-year dry spell and 22 consecutive losses, it was, indeed, a landmark year for the varsity soccer team, which finished the season 7-4. Todd Menke joined veterans Kris Klabik, Chip Peabody, and Matt Moran in their final season.

An early season game against St. Pete Canterbury, which ended in a "shoot out," set the positive atmosphere for the team's winning year. Saint Stephen's triumphed in that game 2-1. Victory over archrival Bradenton Christian also bolstered team spirit.

Four members of the squad were named to the All-Conference team: Klabik, Peabody, Menke, and junior David Barnes brought honors home for the Falcons.

*Florida Gulf Coast Conference Matches

With an 8-3 record, the j.v. soccer team went on to clinch second place in the Florida Gulf Coast League. Two of the three losses were to St. Joe's during suspenseful shoot-outs. The third was to archrival Bradenton Christian.

Although the junior Falcons played their season with three quarters of the previous year's starters gone, the team fought hard enough to earn a respected place in the league.

Adieu, Veterans

Four players played their last games on the varsity girls' squad. Mindy Turner, Betty Rice, Allison Nestor, and Jennifer Jones ended the season on a sweet note, defeating Sarasota Christian 53-32 and tying up a 9-5 win and loss column.

Rena Creighton, the team's fifth starter, played on the boys' soccer squad for part of the season, while an increasingly experienced bench waited for its "starter" season.

Jones and Nestor marked personal milestones and brought home All-Conference honors.

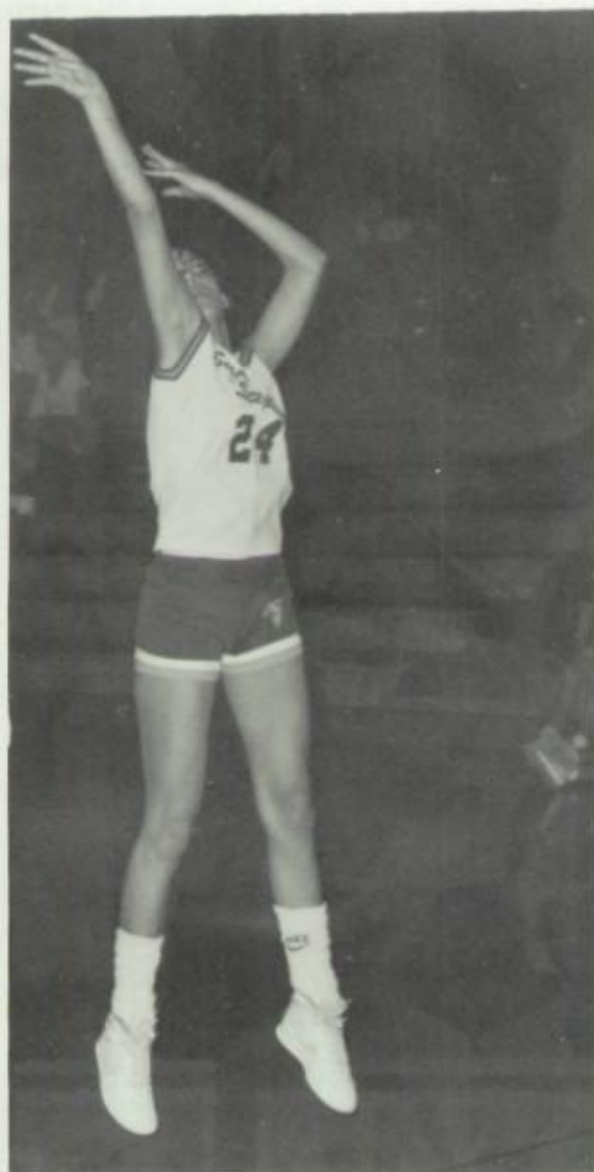

Betty Rice makes another two points against archrival Bradenton Christian.

Allison Nestor goes for a difficult shot during a contest which the Lady Falcons eventually lost to Keswick.

In a contest against Northside Christian, Jennifer Jones sails over the opponents for another basket. The Falcons took the game.

Carrie Jones takes a shot against adversary Keswick but unfortunately could not make up a point deficit for the Falcons, who lost the game.

Jennifer Jones receives a pass from teammate Betty Rice in a 38-43 loss to Keswick.

Great Expectations . . .

With three regular season games left, the boys' varsity basketball team's record stood at a disappointing 3 and 14. First year coach Martin Gilbert, the fourth coach in as many seasons, relied heavily upon Kris Klabik, the team's leader in every offensive category, and his speedy cohort, Chip Peabody. Although the season had its lows, the team never gave up.

Coach Gilbert said, "I was always impressed with the tenacity, determination, and hustle of veterans and young players alike. We never gave up hope."

Kris said, "We never seemed to be able to put things together. I think Coach Gilbert did a good job for his first year with the time and players he had."

While Saint Stephen's will miss the two high-scoring seniors and the exciting play of Curtis Hollinger, the team has many potential young stars like freshman point guard Jon Hamlin.

J.V. Girls Build Winning Team

The junior Lady Falcons completed a winning season and took third place in the Florida Gulf Coast League with their 7-4 record. The backbone of the team consisted of veterans Wendy Mallari, Jenny Dambrell, and April Robinson, who commented that she did not feel next year's team would weaken with the loss of the freshmen.

Erin Mitchell observed, "The starters will have been together for two years. We will be improving next year."

Saint Stephen's junior varsity team had another dominating season, crushing every team it played. Vital to the team were captains John Mills and Jonathan Hamlin, both of whom made sure the team never trailed. With the help of the strong bench and excellent starters, the team once again received first place in the Florida Gulf Coast League.

John Mills predicted difficulty next year when freshmen moved up to varsity and some eighth graders would transfer to other schools. Coach Dave Samler has been faced with similar problems before. Yet, the team won its fourth first place title. Coach Samler observed, "We had another good season because of good players, good size, and a few who worked hard over the summer."

Baseball: Losing With Style

The varsity baseball team did not register a winning season. Even with Wes MacAllister on first, Kris Klabik on the mound, Matt Moran on third and Andy Restrepo on second, the Saint Stephen's nine chalked a disappointing 0-10 record.

The junior Falcons were, on the other hand, impressive, losing only one out of four contests.

MVP for the varsity was Kris Klabik, while MIP was Wes MacAllister. Junior honors went to MVP Jonathan Hamlin and MIP Peter Knize.

Matt Moran prepares to make out number three.

Kris Klabik holds the opposition's score.

Andy Restrepo waits patiently while a runner nears a base.

The 1985 boys' tennis team, 13-1, were nearly perfect in the regular season, losing only their last game to Manatee. They were runner-up at the district tournament behind tough Bradenton Academy.

Most Valuable Player Jim Spencer placed first in his fourth position in the tournament. Marshall Davidson was named Most Improved Player by Coach Mary Stoll. Jason Netter, Richard Birchall, John Vinton, and Brian Tuckerman made All Conference.

The 1985 girls' team completed the regular season with an unblemished 13-0 season. They were led by MVP Madeleine Sanchez and All Conference performers Mandy Stoll, Robin Cifaldi, Cayce Connell, and Mary-Jo Landry.

The Falcons were runners-up in the District Tournament. Madeleine took first place in district in fourth position.

Coach Tom Stoll named Karen Williams MIP.

Milestone

We were "Sweet Sixteen" and definitely not "kids" anymore. Our school was on the road to full maturity. One sign of that was the new administration building. Another was the addition of Mr. Les McLean, the school's first full-time director of development.

Seventy new students joined the family this year, making the total enrollment 270 during this landmark year of our second decade.

Mrs. Majorie Whitson leads a lower school class in song.

The Faces That Are Landmarks

Our newest landmark was the administration building on the upper school circle. We moved there just before July 4, 1985, our own special Independence Day. Those inside thought the building was a great aid to communication and planning.

But Father Barnes, ending his first decade as Saint Stephen's Headmaster remarked, "Physical landmarks come and go. You (the students) are the real landmarks: people, young men and women who each day work out the course of your lives in what you learn, the challenges you meet, the friends you make, even the tests you fail. One day — probably with the help of this book — you will look back on these landmarks of your own life. I pray they will have led you to a life of personal fulfillment and social usefulness."

Celebrating his tenth year as Headmaster is The Rev. Bennett H. Barnes.

A Notable Past

Well, 13 years have gone by, and we actually aren't sick of each other yet. We've seen lots of changes on the campus: new buildings, new faces, and new ways of doing things. We've had a lot of laughs and problems, too, but now graduation is only a month away. Look how far we've come!

During lower school, we saw the high school building and the gym go up. In third grade, Father Barnes arrived as the new headmaster. Betty joined us that year also, and Allison and Kris arrived in fourth grade. The most memorable thing to us about lower school was those stupid little red and blue plaid jumpers that we had to wear every single day! Of course, things have changed since then.

In middle school, the dress code was relaxed. Now, we were allowed to "dress-in-good-taste," instead of wearing uniforms. In the fifth grade, Mrs. Sherwin certainly made sure that we learned to brush our teeth! Chip came to school in sixth grade, while Nicole, Jennifer, and Scott joined the class in seventh. Who can forget those great dances we always had, where the boys lined up on one wall of the Parish Hall and the girls on the other? We never danced much, but we always had plenty to eat. Then there were the Slave Auctions, which were about as much fun as the dances, but we kept having them both every year anyway. Our middle school years were topped off by Junior Grad Day at Walt Disney World in the eighth grade. We'll always remember all those helium balloons and the Mickey Mouse ears. Looking back now, we can safely say that our four years of middle school were a lot of fun and not nearly as much work as we thought at the time.

While it's true that high school has also been fun, we've learned what it's like to really have homework. We have also seen a big increase in courses and in faculty. We can never forget Mr. Miller tripping over the maps in history every day and our great geometry classes with Mrs. Southerland after break of Know-and-Laters and Jolly Ranchers. Many new additions were made to the class during these years: Susan, Jenna, Madeline, and Matt arrived in the ninth grade; Brian in tenth and Mary-Jo, Curtis, Eric, and Carlos in eleventh. Despite our big ideas, some of our class projects have been a little less than successful: all the bake sales when two people would bring brownies, our tenth grade job of washing windows when only five people came, and our ice cream sales when nobody opened the kitchen! The Halloween Candy Committee was always a blast, too. Our junior year saw a new form of student government, one of their biggest achievements being another modification in the dress code. Now, blue-jeans (!!) and long sleeved T-shirts were allowed on Wednesdays. This was really a step from those plaid jumpers. We feel we can speak for the entire class when we say that we've all really enjoyed SAT Saturdays.

We've finally made it to our senior year! Thirteen long years of watching teachers, coaches, and friends come and go; doing homework; playing sports; and working for our class. We've spent more time on this campus than in our own homes! There are some strong bonds between friends that have developed over the years. Our class is unique in that everyone gets along very well with each other. Todd, Amanda, Mike, and Noelle are the last additions to the class.

We feel that the Class of '86 will be remembered for our accomplishments and for the wide variety of individuals that make up the class. There's no denying that these 13 years have certainly been an unforgettable experience. We've come a long way, but this is just the beginning...

Last Will and Testament

I, Carlos Burgos, bequeath all my physics ability and knowledge to Orlando Bravo.

I, Susan Cona, bequeath an abundant amount of gunny-goo-goo to Craig Menke and all the terrentialous rainstorms in the boat to Alex Harllee, who saved my life!

I, Jenna Gillis, bequeath calmness on the volleyball court to Kellie McLaughlin and my Red Baron Snoopy to Sue.

I, Nicole Hammons, bequeath my mattress to Karen Williams so that she can use it for first and second periods, my cork collection to Susan Cona, and my knowledge of "the cell" to Jennifer.

I, Curtis Holinger, bequeath to all rising seniors the desire to do well next year and to enjoy your last year as a high school student.

I, Mike Hughes, bequeath to the junior class one more exciting year of high school. Hope you enjoy it!!

I, Jennifer Jones, bequeath to Carrie Jones my surplus of good moods and smiles for all those days she neglected to bring one and to Kellie McLaughlin my highly developed form of sarcasm.

I, Kris Klabik, bequeath my right foot to C.S., two dollar bills to Bates, and a bouquet of roses to Bertha, may she rest in peace.

I, Mary-Jo Landry, bequeath to Martin Blackman a McDonald's delivery at least once a week.

I, Wilma Mallari, bequeath my gym wall to Coach Stoll, who I am certain, will take good care of it.

I, Todd Menke, bequeath my A.P. English notes, a bright red package, and the key to party to my brother Craig.

I, Scott Mitchell, bequeath all my tanking and skipping class ability to Don Dietch, for I know he will use them wisely.

I, Matt Moran, bequeath my arm rest and belief in Buddha to Norman Bates, my ability to focus to Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Southerland, and to Don, my string collection.

I, Allison Nestor, bequeath my high voice to Martin Blackman; my shoulder pads to Coach Stoll (so that he can be fashionable); and to Alex Harllee, my driving abilities attained after the 28th of September 1985.

I, Noelle Paschon, bequeath to Kellie a finished senior questionnaire and a real sense of humor; to Wilma, Guava; to Amanda, junk food; to Mary-Jo, a full day at the Academy; to Eric, Truffles.

I, Chip Peabody, bequeath all my tuna sandwiches to Mrs. Southerland and my "BOO" qualities to Jim Spencer, who, I'm sure, will need them for all the Manatee girls next year.

I, Betty Rice, bequeath to Tammy Wagoner, my voice and laugh, so she may keep the halls of St. Stephen's forever ringing, and to Kellie McLaughlin, my losing game attitude.

I, Madeline Sanchez, bequeath the school calendar to Orlando Bravo so he can continue to count his years left in school and his days left for vacation. Be Patient, Permiso.

I, Eric Spano, bequeath all of my bad attitude and long hair to Rob Ober.

I, Amanda Thornton, bequeath to Marie, Mitch Mounger's address; to Obes, a hairdryer; to Erin, a year's supply of Pepperidge Farm cookies; to Tanya, 40 lbs. to be distributed proportionally on the hip and thigh area; to Madeline, a calendar; to Julia, a ticket to Sweden; to Mara, my room at the Academy; and to Anne, a real story about Eric (the Pro).

I, Brian Tuckerman, bequeath my clothes, car, apartment keys, and English reading notes to my brother, Craig.

I, Mindy Turner, bequeath my boots to wear bowling on Saturday nights to Mrs. Miller.

I, Kristine Whitson, bequeath my allergies to Mr. Stoll's pipe to Mara, so that she may legitimately miss extensive amounts of school.

Ask any junior and he'll tell you the same thing. "I'm glad this year is over. I can't wait to be a senior." The junior year always seems to be the toughest. Most juniors had a full load with five academic courses and physical education. The change in the graduation requirements beefed up everyone's schedule.

"I think this was my hardest year. Teachers look for you to be organized and prepared every day when you're a junior or senior. That's not so easy when you don't get home after games until 11:00 some nights," said junior David Barnes.

Juniors looked forward to many senior privileges, Grad Nite, and the Senior Prom. "I can't wait," said junior Don Dietch. "Next year should be a blast."

While sophomores are still adjusting to high school, most have begun to find a place. "The toughest thing was the change in teachers. When you're a frosh, it's almost as if you're in middle school. Teachers really cracked down this year," related sophomore Chris Pierce.

Life was not all drudgery, however. Under the leadership of class president Tom Nielsen and advisor Mr. Scott MacGregor, the group organized a bake sale every Monday to help fill the class coffers.

This was certainly a landmark year for the Freshman Class. The group was no longer the leader of the middle school, but was at the bottom of the heap in the upper school. Halfway through the year, the freshmen answered the taunts and jeers of upperclassmen by collecting the most cans of all for the Student Council's Can-paign. They also held a very successful car wash to aid their treasury.

Freshman sponsor Mrs. Julie Fogarty said, "I believe the Freshman Class has more spirit than any of the other classes." This spirit was illustrated by the class's 100% participation in the can drive. She added, "It's a fun class with many eccentric individuals who added flavor to the year."

The same old thing — changing rooms every period, waiting for the year to end, waiting to be freshmen. Everything seemed “old” to the eighth graders until their first dance. Everyone was invited, and, according to Tom Stull, they all had “a blast.”

In the classroom, the only “new thing” seemed to be lab reports for Mrs. Shields. “They seemed hard at first, but I got used to them,” said Eric Massey.

All in all, eighth grade was more of the same with few adjustments.

Students in the sixth grade, along with their fifth grade friends, participated in a pilot foster grandparents program in Manatee County.

The students met with their adopted grandparents at the College Park retirement community on five special occasions: before Thanksgiving and Christmas, on Valentine's Day, at spring break, and at an end-of-the-year picnic.

At each of the special meetings, students presented skits, songs, plays, and recitations. Many of the presentations were original work of the class.

Project sponsor Mrs. Jeanette Whidden said that the greatest benefit to the class was the feeling the sixth graders received from helping others.

Just moving up to the middle school, the fifth graders were the luckiest grade yet! They were fortunate to find Apple computers in their classroom.

Under the supervision of their teachers, Mrs. Jeanette Whidden and Mrs. Jean Shondel, they learned about word processing skills; using the magic slate; and logo language. Students also learned about parts of the computer; how computers are used in business; and computer careers.

All agreed computers are the best thing about middle school.

"I was so excited when I found out where we were going," said Melissa MacGregor when she learned of the class' first field trip of the year. Students walked the streets behind the school on a hot October afternoon to the Fogartyville Cemetery, the oldest in Bradenton. There Mrs. Robichaud's students practiced mathematics by subtracting dates on tombstones and learned a little about Florida history.

Back in the classroom, students polished language skills, both in English and in French. Mrs. Boguszewski, their French teacher, and the class set up a café so the class could imagine what ordering food in Paris would be like.

This year the third graders started writing stories. Each day they wrote a little bit more. Finally, their stories became longer and longer.

The third graders liked writing books, but then they thought making covers for them might be fun, too. Then the class discovered that illustrating the stories was also enjoyable. Finally, each student had a book.

Their teacher, Mrs. McGown, said the activity helped the students' reading comprehension while they were so involved with their creations.

Third graders prepare to read their original stories to one another.

Second Grade: Celebrating Christmas

Beth Dunn and Katrina Crissen prepare Christmas decorations.

Second graders highlighted their year by celebrating Christmas in a special way. They each made their own decoration and put it up in the classroom. Near the holidays they all enjoyed the decorations at a class party. Santa Claus came to the class and he saw the decorations, too!

The class observed the traditional holidays like Halloween and Thanksgiving with costumes and special treats. They even celebrated a few special holidays of their own like the Teddy Bear Reunion and Pet Day.

All the celebrations helped the second graders in Mrs. Thomas' class to learn about preparing, caring, and sharing at special times of the year.

The first graders in Mrs. Pureber's class dressed up like Pilgrims and had a memorable Thanksgiving. Each child made his own costume. When everyone was ready, the class invited the kindergarteners to a feast.

Each child, whether host or guest, helped to prepare part of the meal. The students shared soup, bread, cranberries, and popcorn.

Before the meal, however, a poem was recited and a song was sung. Each class learned about the landmark that Thanksgiving Day is in American history.

Listening to an invitation from the Pilgrims are Indians Justin Hoagland, Ann Gillett, and Elizabeth Beauregard.

Delivering that invitation are first graders James Page, Stephanie Sands, Sande Rao, and Stefanie Lambrinidis.

Kindergarten: A Celebration of Life

Kindergarten students and Mrs. Lucy Kozak gather for a Celebration of Life ceremony.

The Celebration of Life is a special way for everyone in the kindergarten to celebrate his birthday.

On the child's birthday, the class forms a large circle. Everyone sits on the floor with a paper sun at the center. The birthday child gets to sit next to the teacher, or perhaps next to Mom or Dad.

The teacher lights the birth candle, a red one, which represents the time the child was born. A photograph of the child as an infant is passed around the room and the child carries a globe around the sun to represent the passing of a year.

Then a white candle is lighted to present the child's first birthday. A photo is passed around of the child at age one. The ritual continues until the child's birthday age is reached.

Milestone

Clubs and organizations registered milestones and achievements during this landmark year.

Beginning its second decade of community service was the Community Thrift Shop, which donates its entire proceeds to the school. The Parents' Club, also a generous supporter of the school, sponsored a Clambake/Auction in the early fall. Profits for the school reached $17,000.

Two new organizations were formed. Quill and Scroll honored outstanding journalists. The Junior National Honor Society recognized outstanding scholars in grades 7-9.

Bookish members of the upper school — Erik Grindal, Jenna Gillis, Marie Paviol, Mara Flournoy, and Mary Ann Haley — gather to assist with library duties.

Achievement LANDMARK Clubs/Organizations

Middle School Student Council Aids Burn Victims

When the Middle School heard the plight of the Johnson family, they wanted to help. Daniel Johnson and his daughter Shelley were struck by lightning while leaving a Girl Scout meeting late in the summer. Severely injured, they were both hospitalized and the medical bills began to climb.

The council organized a bake sale in the fall for the benefit of the family.

Just before Thanksgiving the council traveled to St. Joseph's School to present the check for the recovering parish family.

Student Council Aids World Hunger

The Upper School Student Council continued to sponsor the Prom in the spring, but started something new — a Christmas Can-paign to raise canned goods for needy families in the area.

Freshmen and seniors vied against sophomores and juniors to raise the most canned goods and reach the club's 2,000 can goal.

Library Aides Do a Volume of Work

Erik Gridal, Jenna Gillis, Marie Paviol, Mara Flourney, Mary Ann Haley.

The student library aides helped Mrs. Vedamuthu with stamping books and showing students how to find materials. Senior Jenna Gillis also assisted by reading to first graders and kindergarteners during her seventh period study hall.

Journalists Increase Production

Publications staff members kept themselves running this year with the production of another edition of Spirit. Between yearbook deadlines, they took turns writing for the school pages of the local newspapers. Middle schoolers also put out a monthly edition of their paper, Middle School Madness.

Editor-in-chief of the yearbook, Kris Klabik, observed quite a bit of madness until the final deadline, but reflected finally that enough quiet had descended on the staff room so that the second edition of The Aerie, the school literary magazine, could be put together in a relaxed atmosphere.

National Honor Society Provides Leadership

The National Honor Society promotes scholarship, leadership, character, and service in the community. Sophomores, juniors, and seniors with at least a B average and possessing these qualities were chosen at the end of the second semester to join the prestigious organization.

Seated: Mindy Turner, Matt Moran, Betty Rice, Marie Paviol. Standing: Mara Flournoy, Jennifer Jones, Wilma Mallari, Erik Grindal, Chip Peabody, Mrs. Judith Southerland, sponsor, Sarah Bettle.

S.H.S. Lives by Its Motto

Following the spirit of the Spanish Honor Society motto, "All for one and one for all", the group planned to sponsor a needy Latin-American child.

To be eligible for the society, a student must have an A average in Spanish and an overall B average in other subjects.

Mindy Turner, Jennifer Jones, Mrs. Julie Fogarty, sponsor, Mara Flournoy.

French Honor Society: France's Best in Bradenton

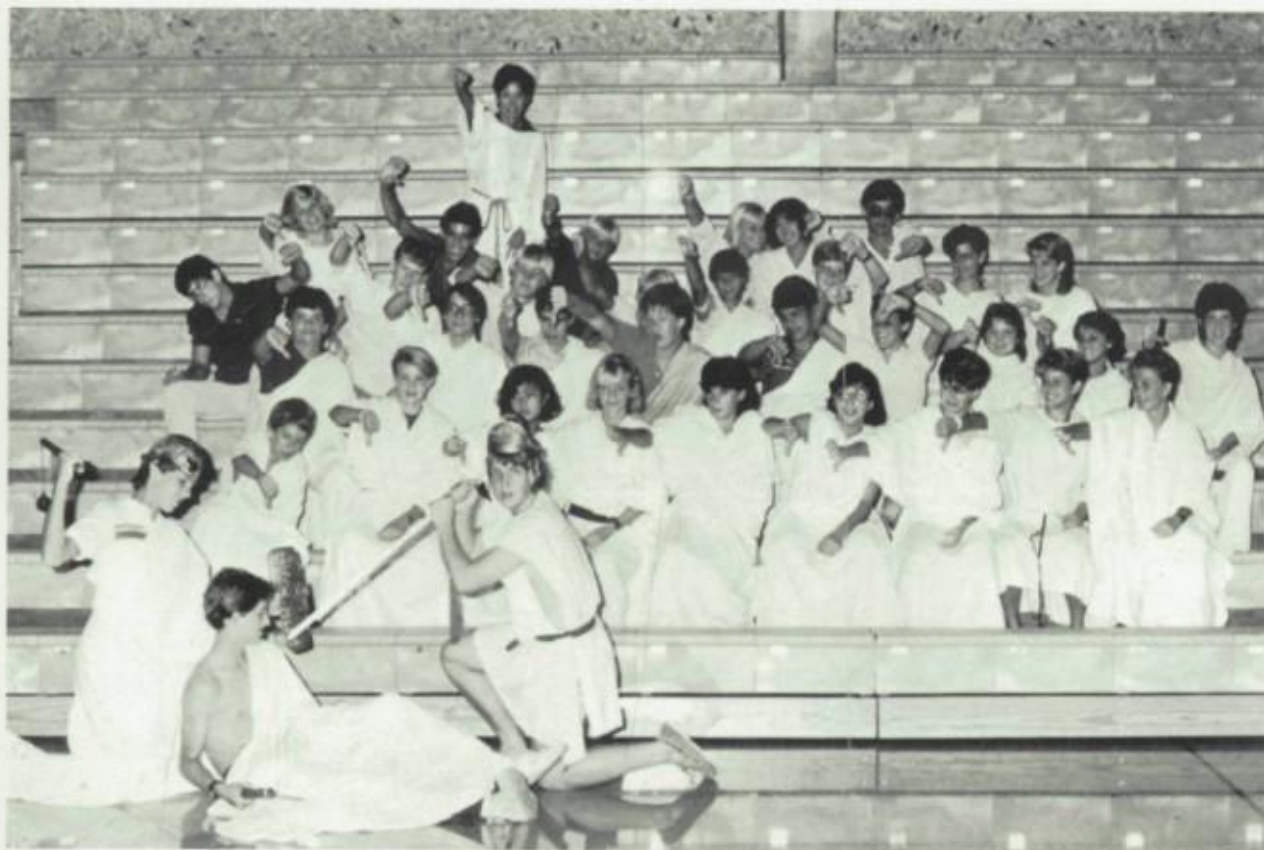

Mrs. Lynn Moss, sponsor, Jennifer Jones, Laurent DeWinter

Each semester the Société Honoraire de Français recognizes and honors the most gifted French students. The organization is devoted to the study and promotion of French culture.

"L'homme qui sais deux langues en vaut deux," the club motto, reflects the group's spirit within the school.

Sponsored by Mrs. Candace Moseley, the Junior Classical League completed its second year at Saint Stephen's in style. Members continued to bring home ribbons by the chariotful from the District Latin Forum in February. The enthusiasm and success of the JCL's members is testimony to the group's pledge to promote the study and appreciation of ancient Roman and Greek culture.

New Members Add to Falcon Notes

It was a landmark year for the Falcon Notes, the upper school choral group. Two males joined the previously all-female singing ensemble. All agreed the addition enhanced the choir.

The group continued to sing at weekly chapel services, as well as at holiday services, the Grandparents' Luncheon, and at Graduation.

Suzanne Urschel, Sarah Bettie, Kyle Turoff, John Walsh, Chip Sanford, Mrs. Marjorie Whitson, Kristen Grindal, Susan Harmon, Christie Clark, Liz Clack.

Singers Highlight Landmark Year

Grades 5-8 combined their voices every week to sing for chapel services. They also performed at the Grandparents' Luncheon and at the Middle School Closing. The highlight of their year was singing at Father Mathus' ordination ceremony in October.

The Altar Guild, which prepares wine and bread for our chapel communion services, was organized last year by its present sponsor, Mrs. Judith Southerland. The guild members also cleanse the altar after the services.

Members of the altar guild must be at least juniors and have a desire to help in the religious life of the school.

Acolytes: Donating Time to Learn

Row 1: Robby Sanford. Row 2: Fr. David Mathus, Gris Bettel, Ryan Fogarty, John Coil, Tom Stull, Stewart Lindsay, Chad Volkert, Emily Moseley, Fr. According to sponsor Mr. Richard Gibson, the acolytes' duties consist of serving the church and maintaining a delicate balance between the church and the school.

Throughout the year, the acolytes have been present at many milestone occasions, including Father Mathus' ordination, and the traditional Christmas Service of Lessons and Carols. Middle and upper school boys and girls interested in learning about the church are encouraged to join the group.

Parents' Club: The Year of the Clambake

A landmark year for the Parents' Club began in September with a Clambake/Auction which generated nearly $17,000 for the benefit of the students of Saint Stephen's School. Trips to exotic islands, a Burmese python, and the shirt off a guest's back were sold to the highest bidders at the casual event attended by nearly 200 enthusiastic partygoers.

Further growth of the Wilson Library was made possible through the generosity of 100 attending the annual Library Benefit in November. Out-of-town contributors helped with the purchase of a new set of encyclopedias for the shelves.

December found thousands of student-drawn Christmas cards in the mail following the sixth annual Parents' Club sale. For the first year, the cards were sold at several local holiday and church bazaars. Postcards were printed to help those who wished to escape rising postage costs.

Other projects of the school year included the lunch program, headed this year by Mrs. Carol Merkin; the annual Faculty Appreciation Luncheon; and the well attended Grandparents' Day Luncheon. Ending the year was a crowdgathering picnic at which officers for the new year were elected.

Parents Beryl Lambrinidis and Julianne Barnhill help themselves from a bountiful potluck table at the end-of-school Parents' Club Family Picnic.

Parents' Club Board of Directors, 1985-86: Carol Merkin, lunch program director; Sue Caltabiano, Grandparents' Luncheon chairman; Gert McNally, recording secretary; Judy Southerland, treasurer; Valerie Flournoy, second vice-president; Susan Piontek, Faculty Appreciation Luncheon chairman; Jacqueline Clark, president. Not pictured: Barbara Pierce, first vice-president; Valerie Hunter, room mothers chairman; Ann Hodges, Library Benefit chairman.

The Community Thrift Shop: Beginning a Second Decade

Volunteers Maria Reters, Melitta Hoenle, and Maris Britton are among fifty volunteers who donate 150 hours per week to keep the Community Thrift Shop open nearly year round for the benefit of the school.

The Thrift Shop began its second decade with a celebration in late October. Green and gold balloons decorated the building on Forty-first Street West where 50 volunteers donate 150 hours per week nearly year round to raise money for the benefit of the school.

In its first decade, devotion earned over $175,000 for Saint Stephen's. With ten new parent volunteers, the life blood of the shop was renewed and the organization was on its way to raising its yearly contribution of over $20,000 for the development of Saint Stephen's School.

Board of Directors, 1985-86 Seated: Georgette Orander; Standing: Margie Marker; Ginny Larson, shop manager; Valerie Flournoy, vice-president; Ann Gould, chairman of the board; Ann Honahan, treasurer; Edna Alexander. Not pictured: Kay Taylor, president; Margaret Barnes, advisor/consultant; Sandy Stern, secretary; and Mall Chaney, chairman of volunteers.

Highlight

Milestone

It was a landmark year for the school's academic program in several ways. A new social studies courses, civics, was added in the upper school.

In addition, the credit requirement for graduation was changed from 20 to 21. Students now were required to complete both three years of science and of social studies for graduation.

SAT and ACT scores followed the national trend and continued to rise. Once again Saint Stephen's students surpassed national, state, and local averages on these college examinations.

Another sign of our students continuing academic success was the recognition received by National Merit Commended Scholars Wilma Mallari and Mindy Turner.

Mrs. Shields explains a chemistry experiment to Stewart Lindsay and Robby Sanford.

LANDMARK

Academics

Kindergarteners Anna Gillett, Justin Hoaglund, and Kevin Starrak enjoy working with scissors and paste.

Danny Floyd, J. C. Parrish, and Adam Witek learn through manipulative activities.

This year in the lower school the curriculum remained the same for the most part.

The third graders with the help of new faculty member Mrs. Frances McGown put together a book of fairy tales and other stories, and they also wrote books about animals while they were studying them.

More emphasis was placed on science in kindergarten through fourth grade.

The third and fourth graders used situations to learn and enjoy French. Fourth graders were especially enthusiastic about having their own French books, and they progressed very well, according to their teacher, Mrs. Nikki Boguszewski.

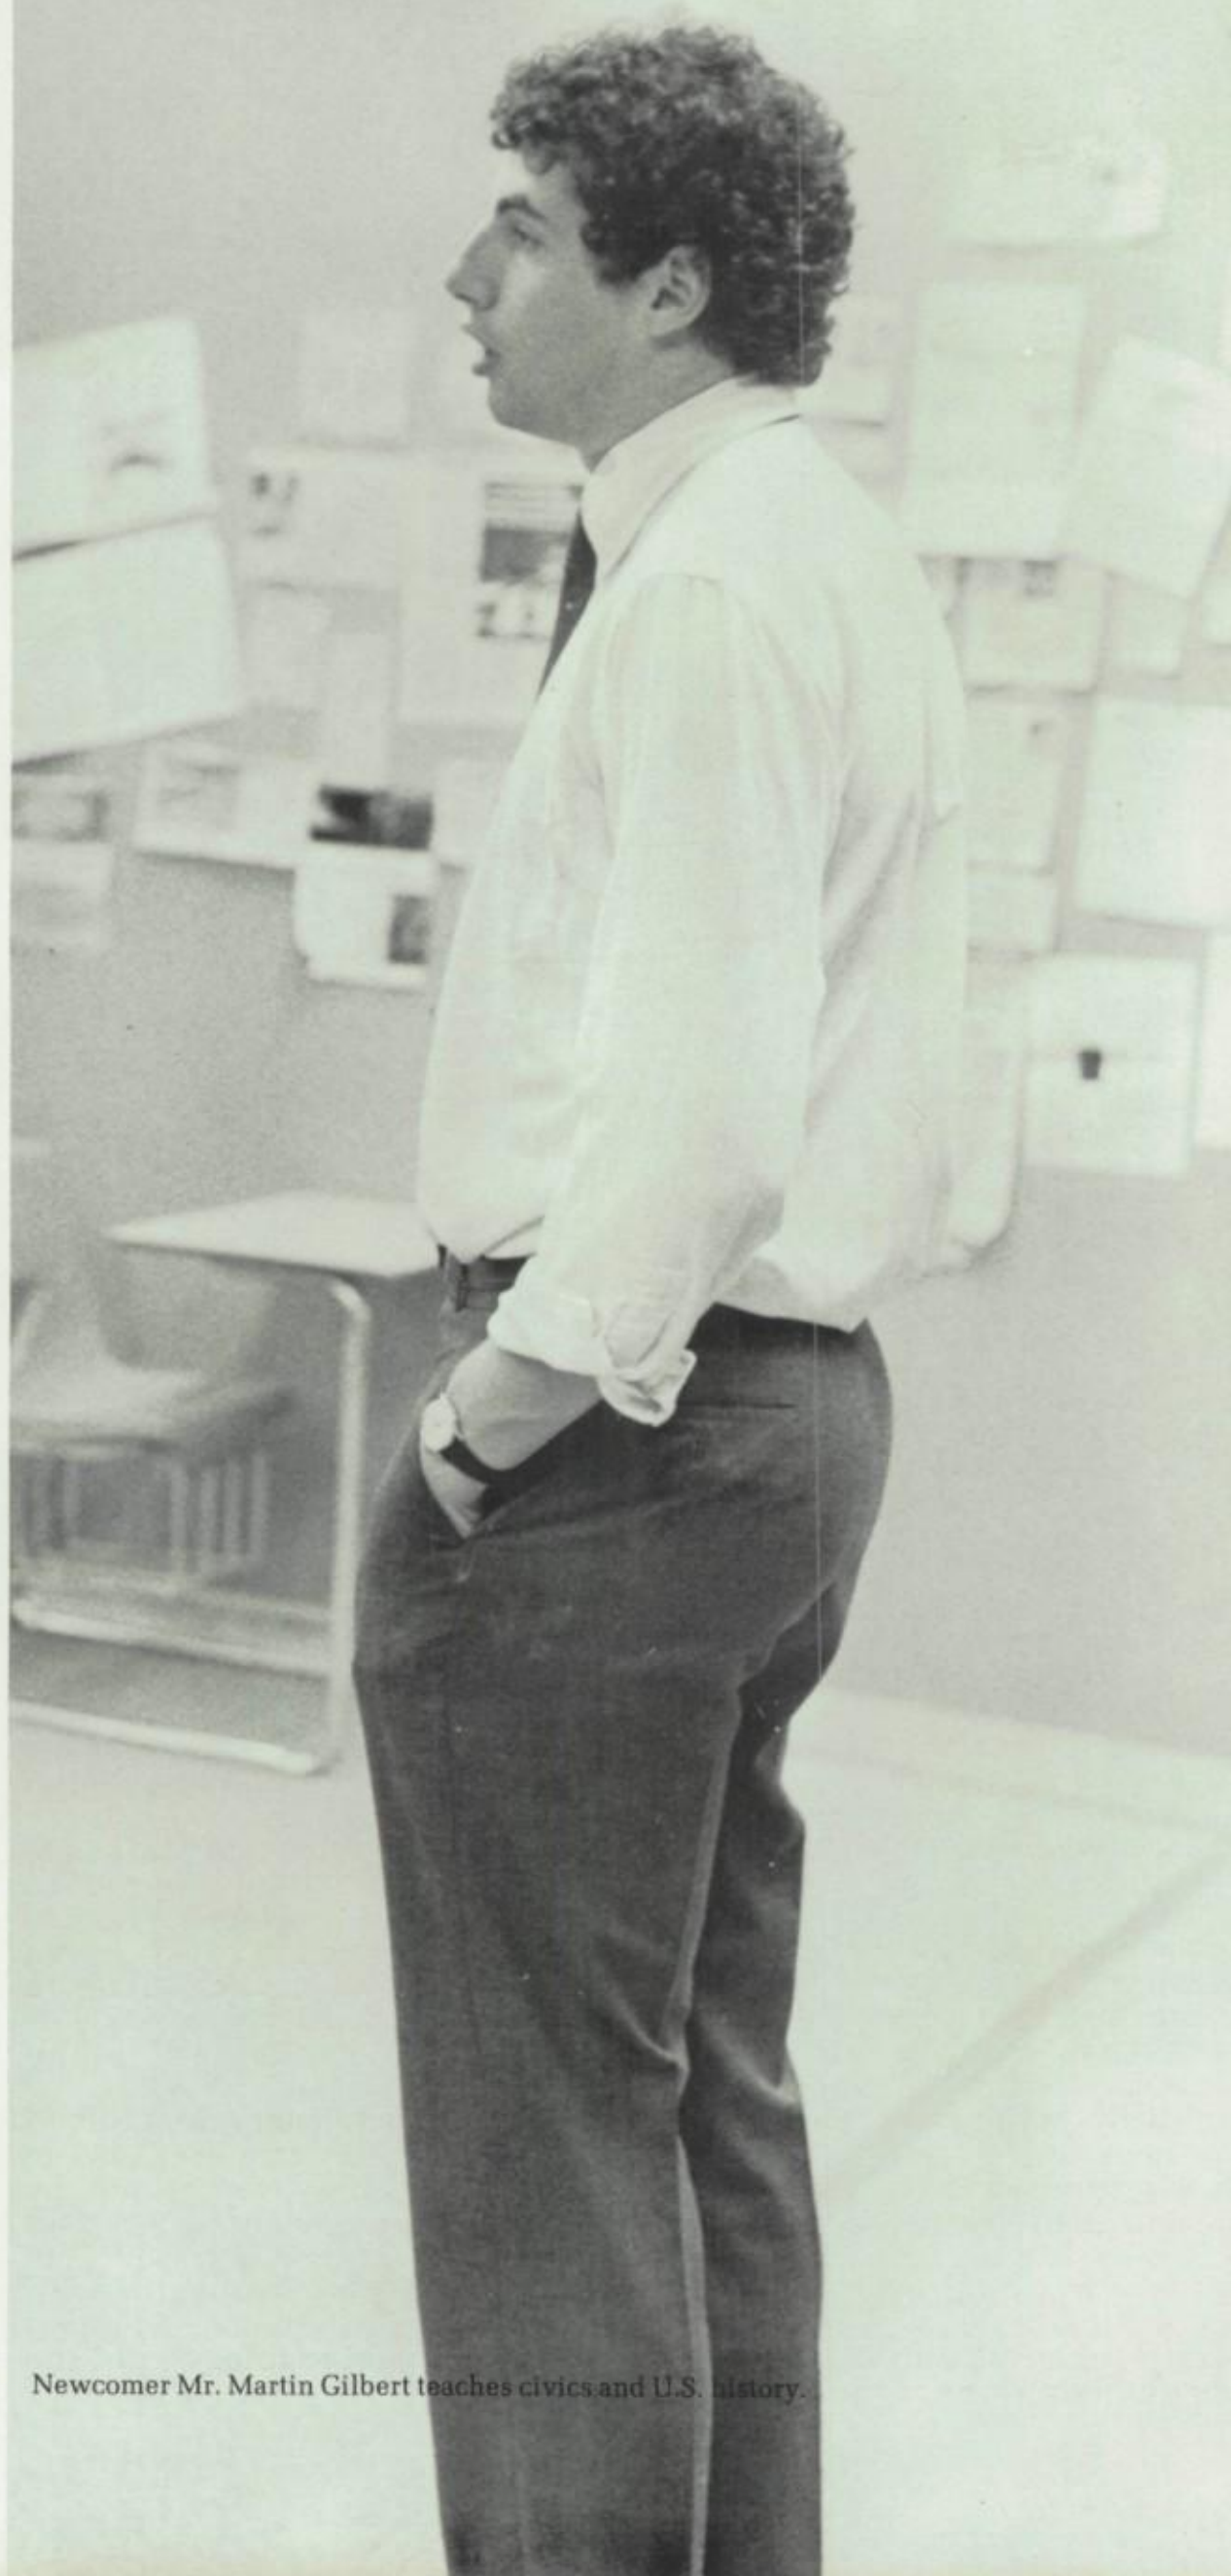

To coordinate with American history, the fifth graders, taught by Mrs. Jean Shondel, had a Thanksgiving dinner and program.

In their study of world culture, Mrs. Shondel's students had a Christmas Around the World program and meal. Curriculum additions for Mrs. Shondel's classes included the use of outside speakers, field trips, and written and oral social studies reports.

Mr. Martin Gilbert, an addition to the social studies faculty, taught the new civics course. Students studied American government, law, current events, and economics. Since a textbook was not used, students learned to manipulate many handouts.

In American history, Mr. Gilbert introduced to primary source documents, such as essays by historians like Hofstadter and Boorsten. He also hoped "to familiarize the students with America's glorious and rich past and the methodology of the historian."

More Science in Lower School; New Teacher and Course in Social Studies

Newcomer Mr. Martin Gilbert teaches civics and U.S. history.

In U.S. History students participate in class discussion.

European history is a special interest of Spanish teacher Mrs. June Forney, who taught a section of the social studies class both terms.

More Focus On Labs and Computers, “Hands-on” Experience

Mrs. Southernland explains a geometry proof to Sam Heitman. The mathematics class proved to be a challenge for many sophomores and juniors completing the three-year mathematics requirement.

Explaining a complicated science experiment, Mrs. AnnMarie Shields makes clear the methodology seem less threatening to young middle school scientists.

Kim Dockery writes up the first of many reports for marine biology lab.

Mastering an ancient instrument, the recorder, is Pravin Chatani, who works with Mrs. Marjorie Whitson every week to perfect his skill.

Printing methods have changed considerably over the last centuries. Mr. Watkins experiments with a movable type machine donated to the school.

Johanna Bergstrom serves as model for a sixth grade drawing lesson.

Mrs. AnnMarie Shields, seventh and eighth grade science, and Mrs. Jeanette Whidden, fifth and sixth grade science, were the two new teachers in the Science Department. The fifth and sixth grade classes held weekly labs and went on field trips, both of which supported their experience-oriented science.

The students in the fifth and sixth grades also worked more with computers. They learned about computer concepts and terminology, computers in our lives, the uses of existing software, and elementary BASIC programming.

The seventh and eighth grade classes also held weekly labs which gave the students "hands-on" experience. A lab report was required for each lab period. The middle school seemed to focus on lab experience more than ever before.

Mr. Scott MacGregor's Advanced Placement Biology class used a new book, Biology by Helen Curtis.

The marine biology classes, also taught by Mr. MacGregor, used a new textbook, too — Seaside Naturalist by Deborah Coulom. Like all other science classes, the marine scientists focused on lab work.

Fifth and sixth grade mathematicians supported their math lessons by projects and hands-on activities. Also added to the Mathematics Department were next textbooks for advanced mathematics and pre-algebra.

The Art Department obtained two small printing presses and assorted types. Mr. Charley Watkins, the art instructor, stated the presses provide "a good opportunity to learn how printing was once done."

The Music Department planned its first musical, Gilbert and Sullivan's The Mikado.

Small classes give teachers and students time for conferring about special activities and problems. Mrs. Julie Fogarty explains a verb tense ending in Spanish to David Barnes.

Mrs. Pat Miller takes notes, too. She must keep up with students' progress in oral skills.

Writing Emphasis in English 10; New Learning Devices in French

The English Department acquired two new teachers, Mrs. Jean Shondel, fifth and sixth grade language arts, and Mrs. Christine Lassiter, seventh and eighth grades.

Upper school students used new literature anthologies, and the department devised new literacy skills and speaking skills sequence charts. The tenth grade English class put emphasis on composition and literary analysis; it was the first year the class used a composition text, The Student Writer's Guide. The Advanced Placement class gave the library a subscription to PMLA; The Awakening, by Kate Chopin; the works of Langston Hughes; and criticism of novels by Herman Hesse.

In addition to lower and middle school French, Mrs. Eniko Boguszewski taught French I and II. She explains a vocabulary lesson to Fara Clack, one of the school's upper school Francophiles.

In the Foreign Language Department, Mrs. Moss' French classes subscribed to a French newspaper for the first time. Journal Francais d'Amerique was used for the discussion of current events in France and those in American from a French perspective. A new set of tapes, featuring interviews by French reporters of various citizens of Poitiers, France, were used for listening and comprehension.

A new Spanish class, Spanish 5, dealt mainly with primary and secondary source literature and some grammar.

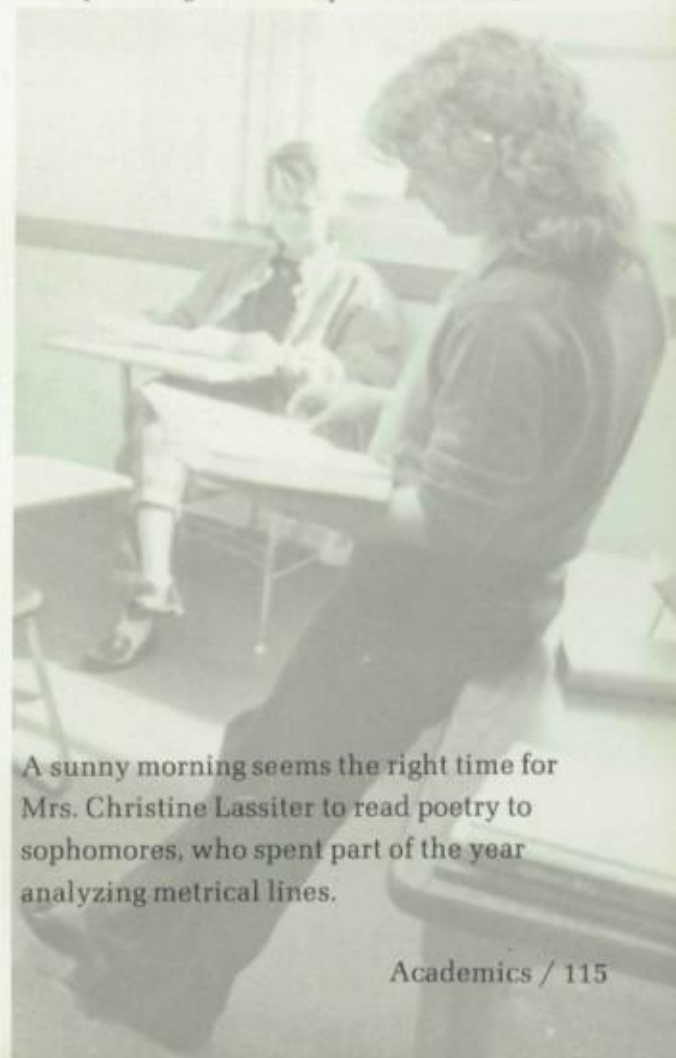

Fifth and sixth grade French classes taught by new faculty member Mrs. Nikki Boguszewski, learned vocabulary through French situations, such as ordering in a cafe, explaining an illness in a doctor's office, and shopping in a market.

Translation of a language requires application of grammar skills. Grit Bettel begins an assignment with the assistance of his instructor, Mrs. Candace Moseley.

Listening and speaking skills were emphasized to freshmen in English 9. Chip Sanford, Richard Leighton, and Jon Walsh also kept work organized in a required class notebook.

A sunny morning seems the right time for Mrs. Christine Lassiter to read poetry to sophomores, who spent part of the year analyzing metrical lines.

Fast food dominated the advertising scene during this centennial year of the hamburger. The Whopper tried to beat Big Mac as Wendy's still looked for the beef. Soft drink executives helped to intensify the battle as they introduced New, Diet, Caffeine Free, Cherry, and finally, Classic Coke. Pepsi found a place into space with Coca-Cola, but the astronauts sipped the latter drink first.

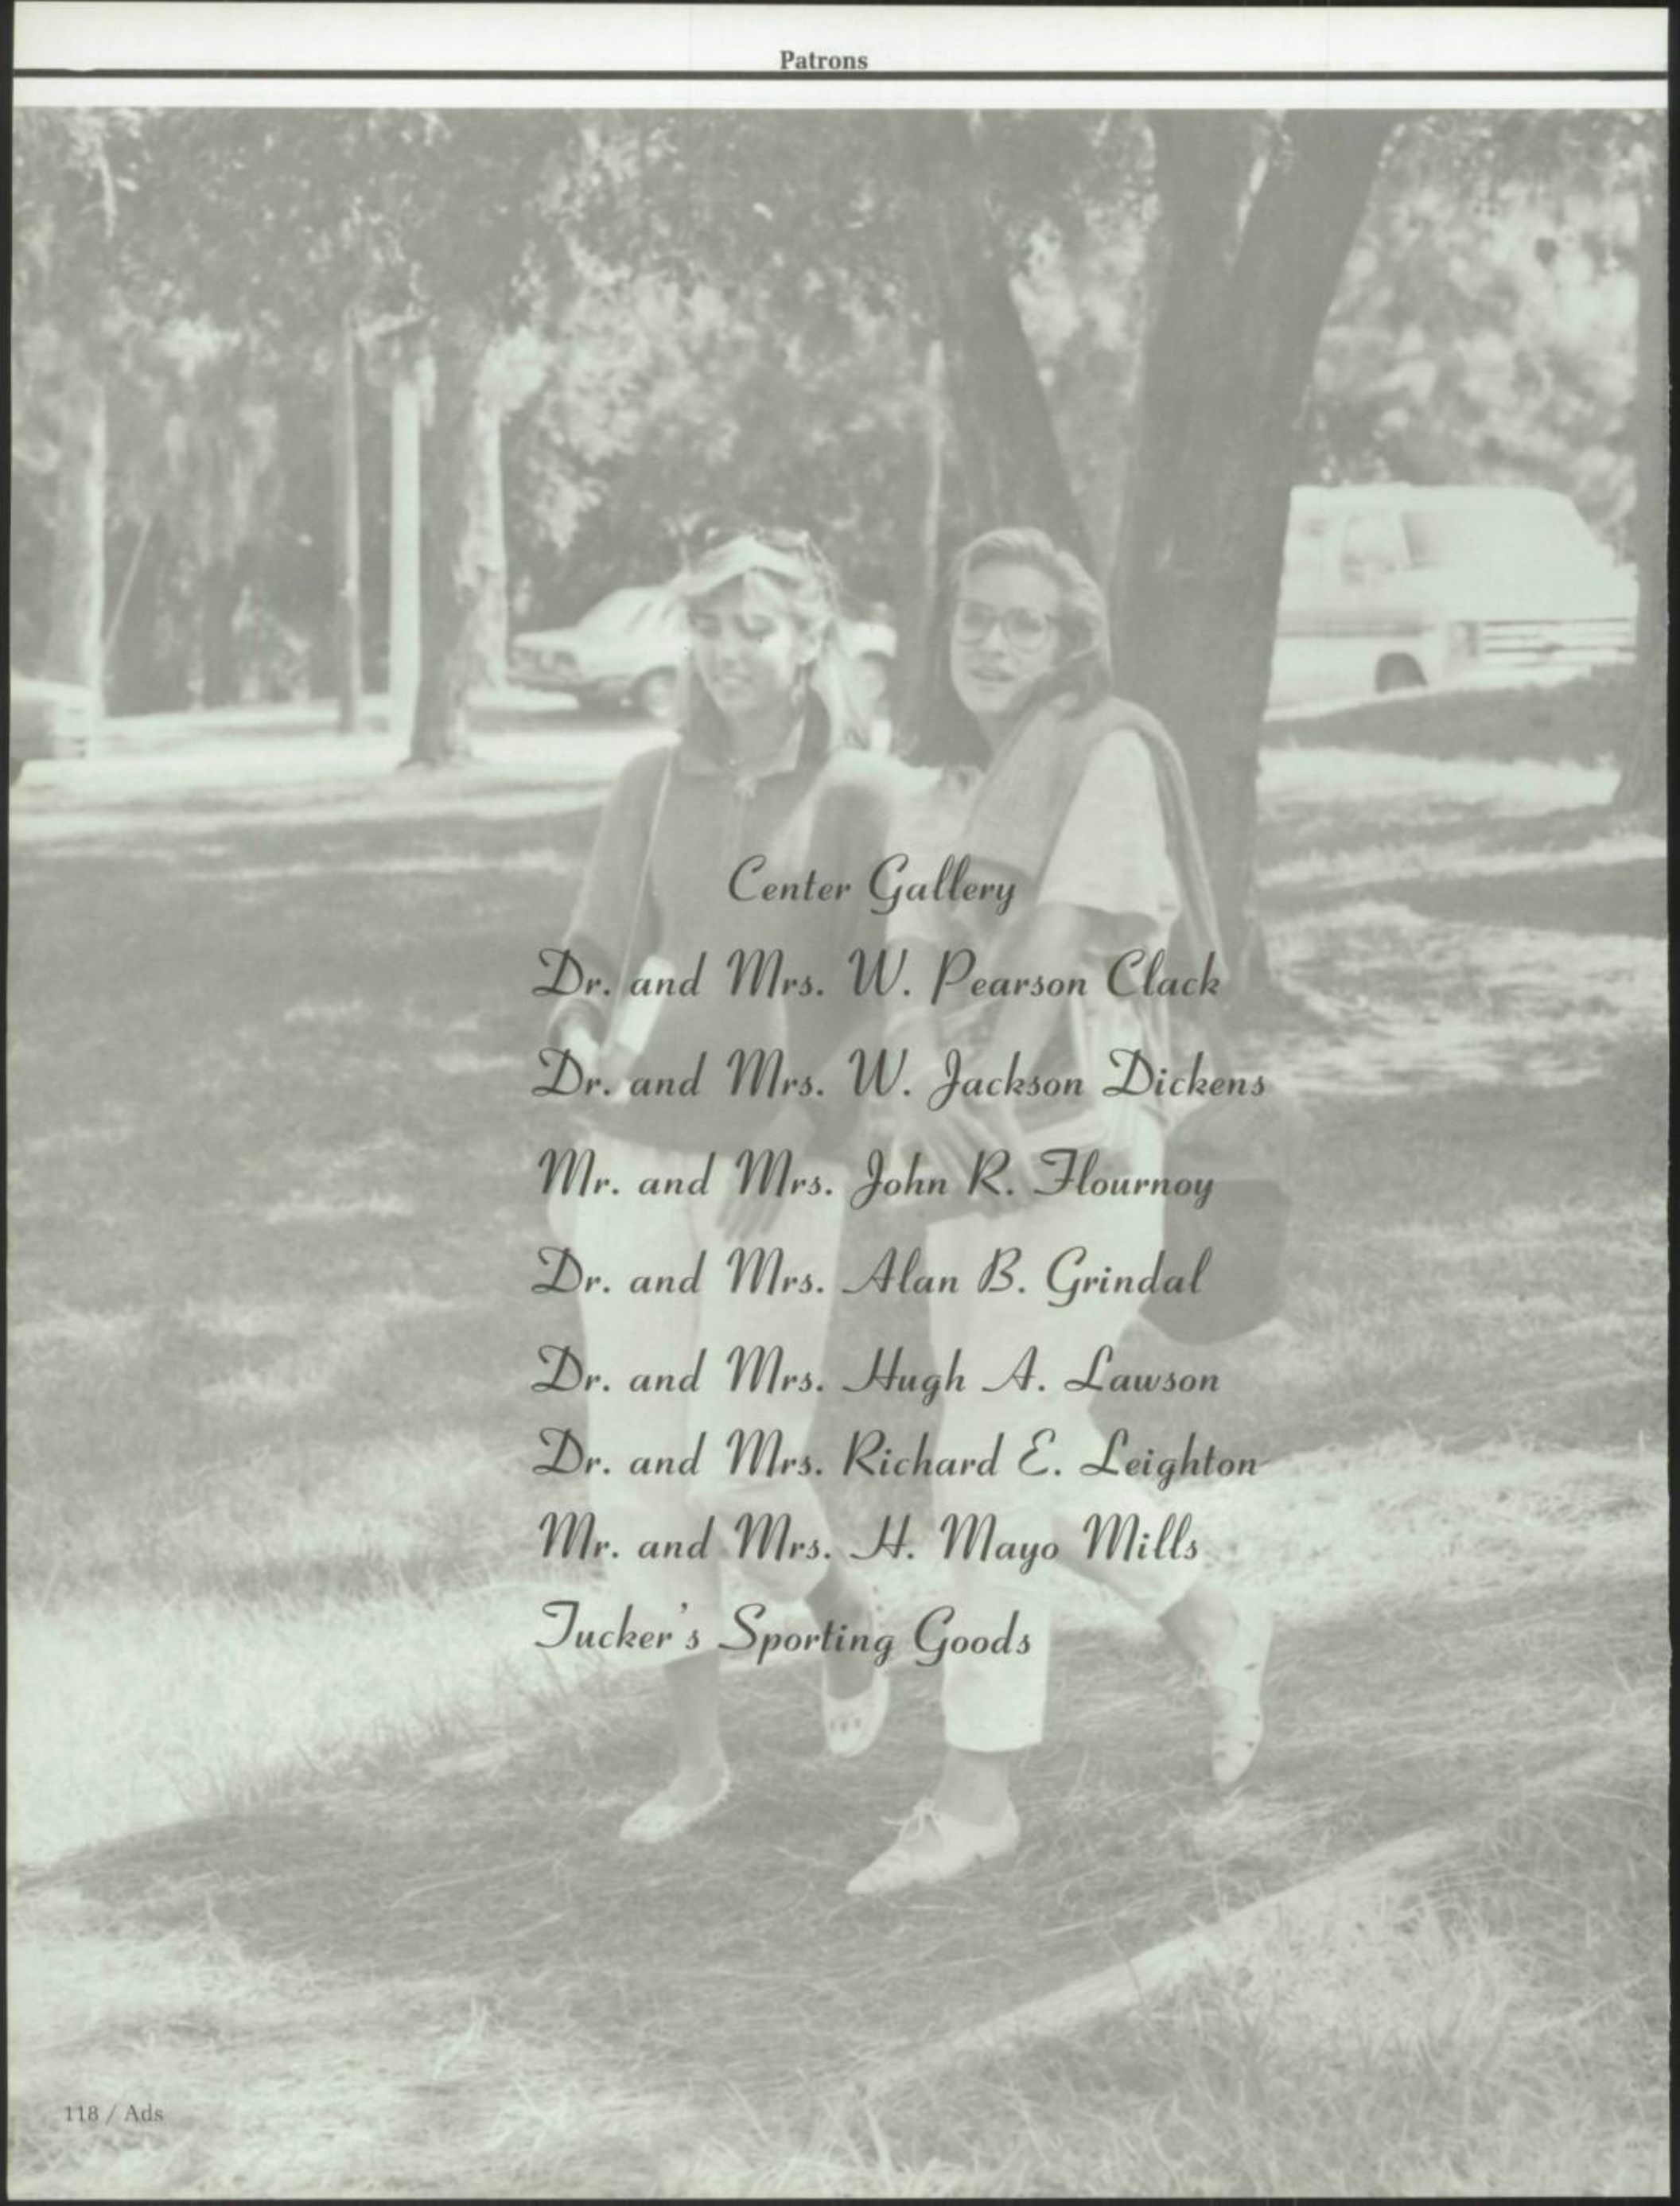

Upper school students try to determine which soft drink satisfies most.

MY POEM

by Kris Klabik - sixth grade

Here I sit trying to think of a poem.
 I probably won't finish
 I'll finish at home.
 I know I'll muff it just by the words.
 Maybe I'll write it about the birds,
 Or maybe I'll write it about a cow,
 But it won't work out, 'cause I don't know how.
 It's just too hard for a kid like me.
 It's just too hard as you can see.
 I can't write a poem
 Even if I had to.
 I can't do it, I know
 that's true.
 So I guess I won't write one, but I know I should.
 But that's too bad. I know
 I could.

We're proud of you and we love you.
 -Dad, Mom, and Bryan

You to the left and I to the right
For the ways of men must sever —
And it well may be for a day and a night,
And it well may be forever.
But whether we meet or whether we part
(For our ways are past our knowing),
A pledge from the heart to its fellow heart
On the ways we all are going!
Here's luck!
For we know not where we are going.

Nineteen hundred eighty-six was, indeed, a year of landmarks. The comet, the Lady, and "the Refrigerator" all helped to mark time for us.

At Saint Stephen's, anniversaries and school expansion kept us close while reminding us of the school's increasing maturity.

It was the year when composite SAT's averaged over 1000 points, when we threw a clambake that raised thousands, when we pulled together for a Can-paign. For the Saint Stephen's family it was another landmark year.

Lower school students relive the story of Christ's birth at Christ Church during the traditional service of Lessons and Carols.

Closing

Upper school English instructor Mrs. Pat Miller seems to have misplaced her legs. With mounds of papers to mark each week, many students thought it remarkable that she could always keep her wits about her.

Battling at December's Alumni Homecoming are old classmates Carols Boothby and Brian Klabik, both of the Class of 1983.

Enjoying the newly structured alumni activities at Christmas time are Barb Dekle, '84, Will Southerland, '85, Jennifer Jones, '86, Becca Barber, '85, and faculty member Coach Dave Samler.

Mary Beiler is only one of the many middle school students who practiced long hours for the traditional service of Lessons and Carols, held the evening before Christmas holiday dismissal.

Moments That Are Remembered by All

When the Campaign at Christmas dismissal bell was declared "over," students at Saint Stephen's had raised 2,500 items of canned food for the needy of Manatee County. Freshmen and seniors gathered the most food. John Vinton and Chris Pierce, members of the Student Council committee headed by Eric Spano and Craig Tuckerman, count the items for the individual class tallies.

Six years ago, in May of 1980, I was reading the final page of Spirit. That particular page was a thank-you from the editors, Crispin Fowler and Marcella Drawdry, to all of the people who had helped put the book together. At that time, I was in the sixth grade, and ever since then, I have wanted to be the person who says the final good-bye to the school. As you can see, I've gotten that chance. I hope I don't blow it.

First, I'd like to thank the people who went through the year dazed and confused — mainly, my staff. Anyone who has read this book can see that they have done a great job. Not only did they have to build a book, they had to put up with my ego at the same time.

Secondly, I'd like to thank Mr. Watkins, who did the bulk of our photo work and taught me how to use a camera. (I think the latter was the harder).

Finally, I wish to thank Mrs. Valerie Flournoy and Mr. Ron Binns. With their help and advice, we were able to produce a great success.

I hope that you have enjoyed Spirit '86, It's A Landmark Year. A lot of time-consuming, nit-picking, hard work went into making it and I hope you'll take the time to congratulate the staff.

This being my last (and landmark) year at Saint Stephen's, I'd like to take up a little space to thank some people whom I have grown accustomed to:

Mr. Dave Samler, who has had the distinct pleasure of taping my ankle for the past four years. C.S., thanks more than once.

Mr. Richard Gibson, who has helped me grow up and taught me how to listen.

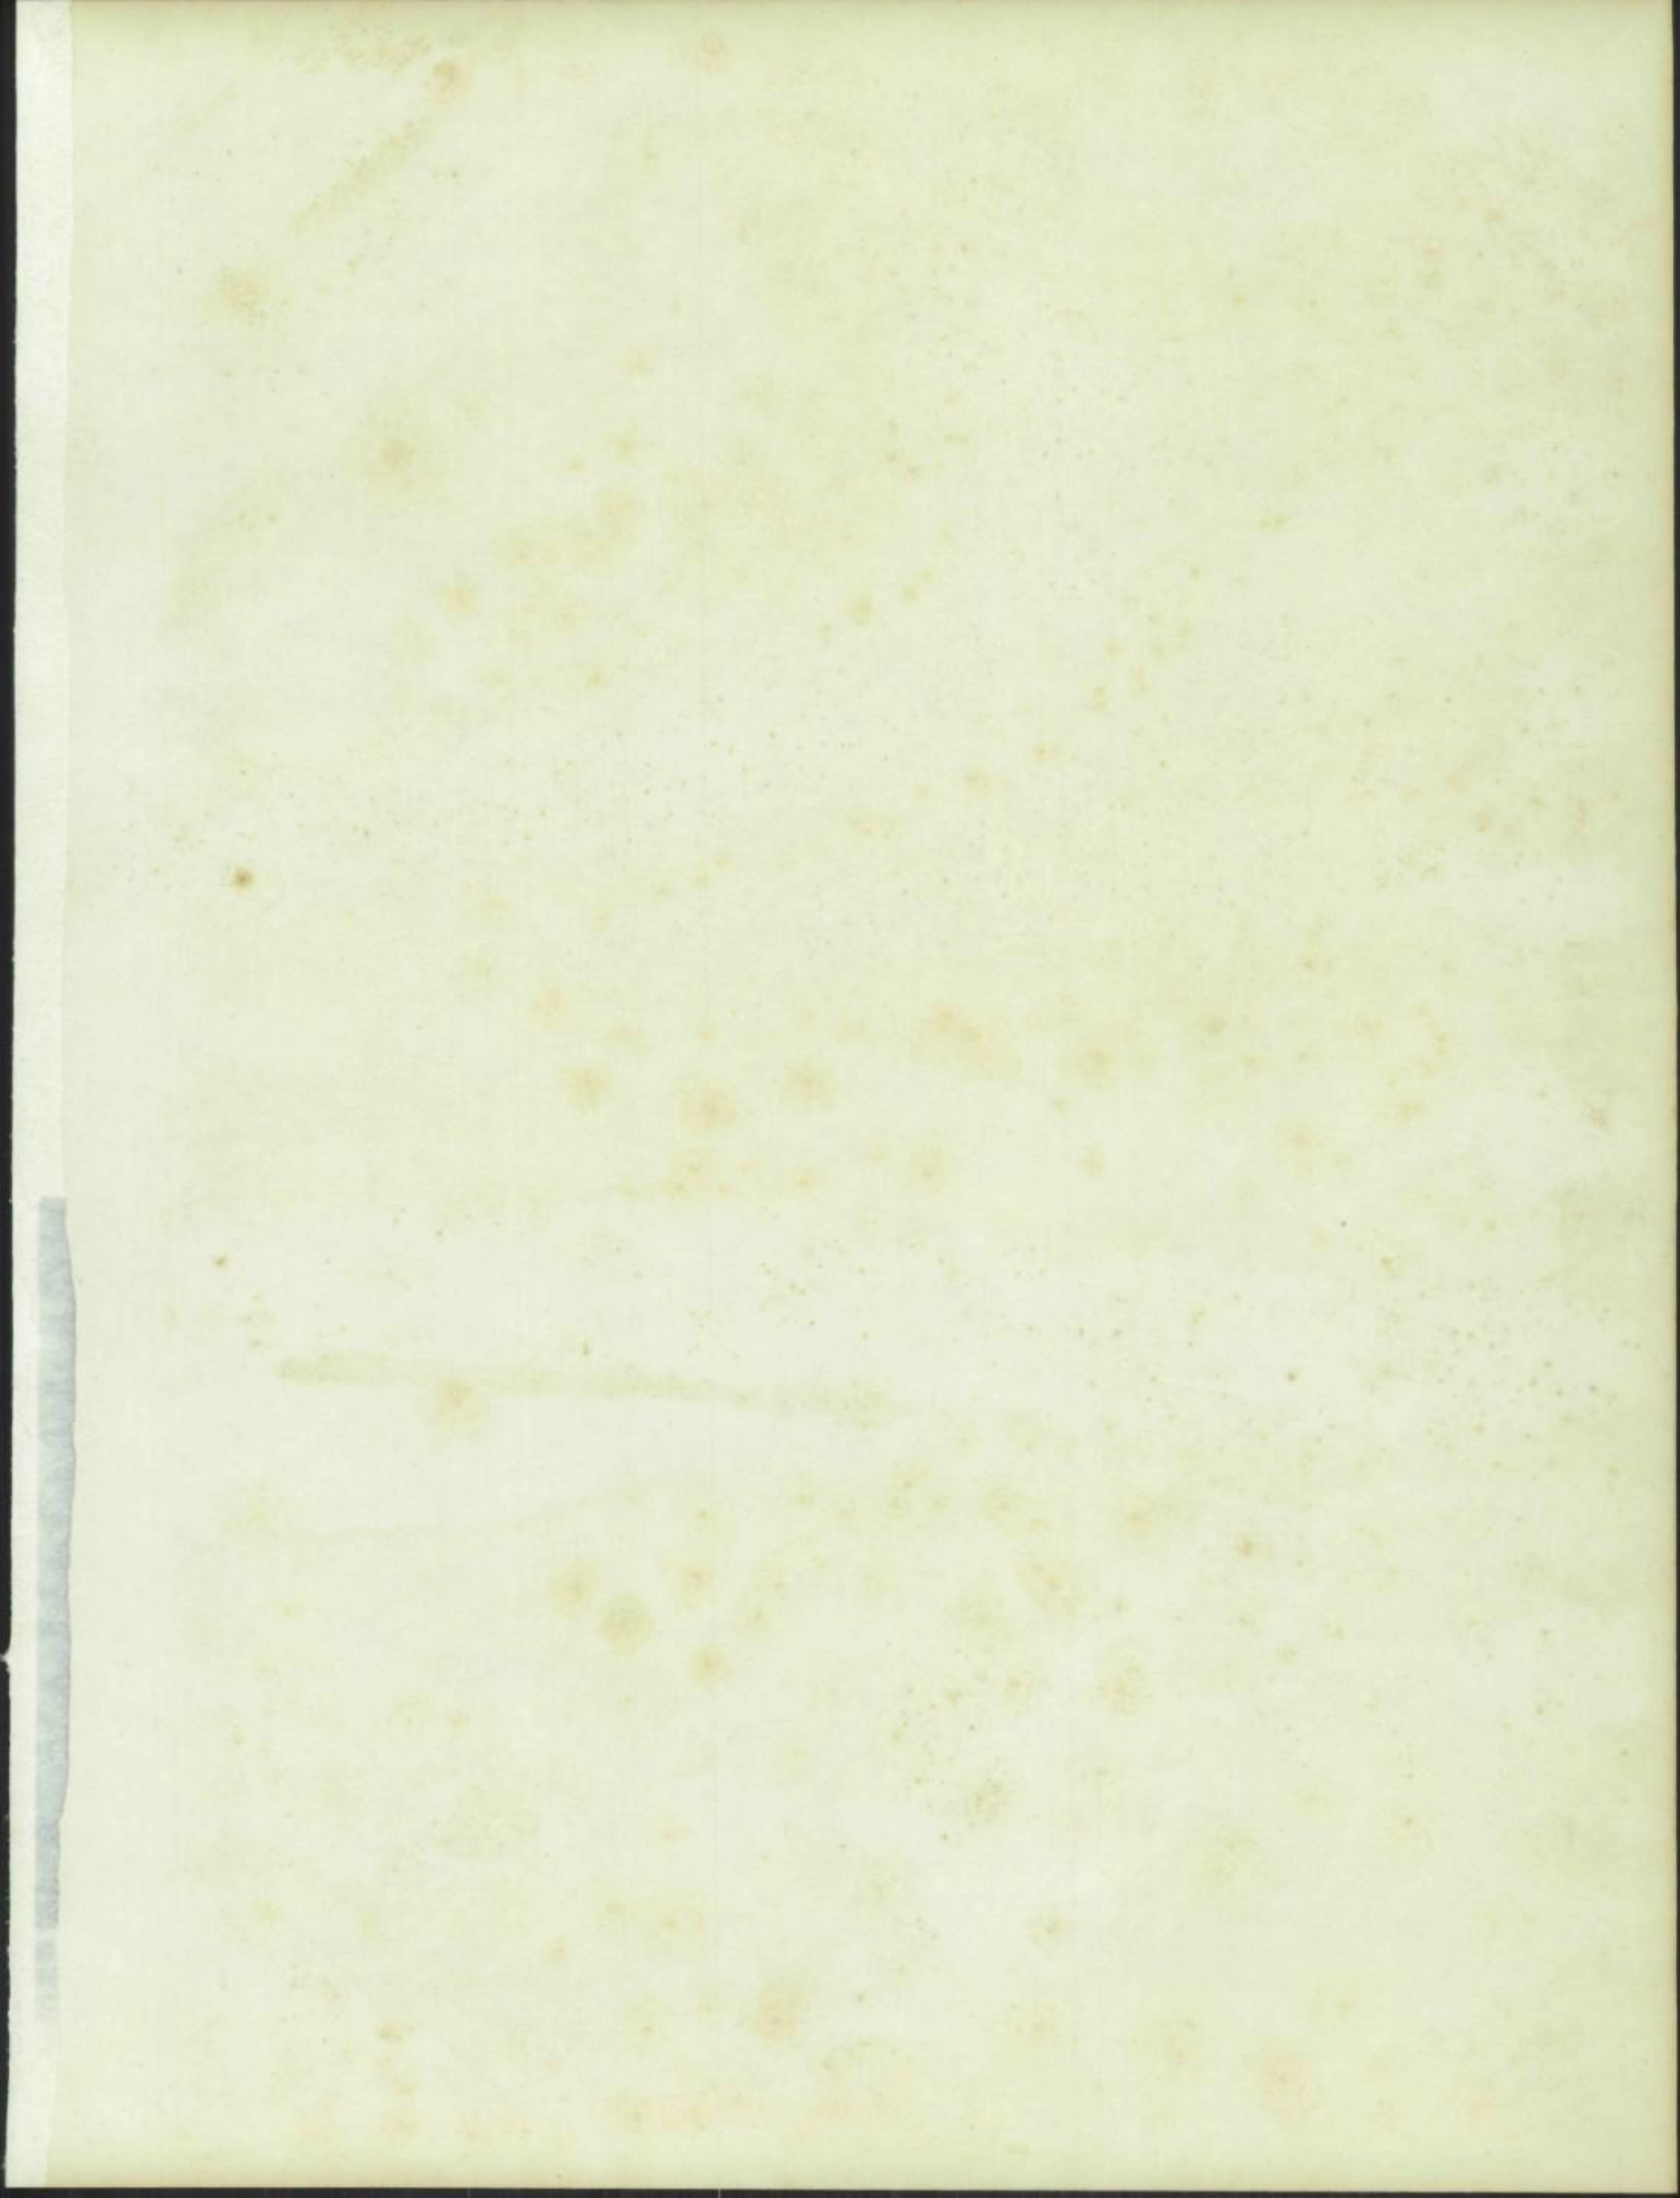

Miss Peg Wolters, who taught me how and why to learn.

Mrs. Southerland (a/k/a "Mom" and "First National Bank of Saint Stephen's"), ahh, Mrs. Southerland. I can't explain how I feel. If I didn't like my own mother so much, I would live with her. Mrs. Southerland, I love ya. Thank you for making my day so many times.

Well, I think that's about everyone. I hope the people of Saint Stephen's have enjoyed me as much as I have enjoyed Saint Stephen's. I tried to break some of the tension here. Maybe, in years to come, people will realize that.
